

DIWALI (Deepawali) Festival of Lights

WALT understand the meaning of the festival of Diwali.

What is Diwali?

- Diwali is a Indian festival which lasts for 5 days.
- It is an important five-day festival in Hinduism, Jainism, and Sikhism, occurring between mid-October and mid-November. The name "Diwali" is a contraction of "Deepavali" which translates into "row of lamps".
- Mainly Diwali commemorates the return of Lord Rama (Hindu God) from his fourteen-year-long exile and vanquishing the demon-king Ravana.
- The festival celebrates good over evil; light over darkness.
- The Goddess of Wealth (Lakshmi) is honoured during Diwali which is also considered to be the Hindu New Year.
- Because there are many regions in India, Diwali is celebrated in many different ways (and also all over the World.)
- Diwali is also used to celebrate a successful harvest.

Some of the ancient legends are re- enacted

The story of the demon Narakaasura

- This demon was an evil king. He ruled with a reign of terror, abducted 16,000 daughters of the gods, and stole the earrings of Aditi, mother of the gods.
- The gods asked Lord Krishna for help, and after a mighty battle he killed the demon, freed the girls, and recovered the earrings.
- After his victory Krishna returned very early in the morning and was bathed and massaged with scented oils. Taking an early morning bath with oil is still a Diwali tradition.

The story of Rama and Sita

- This is probably the most famous Diwali legend and many of the traditions practiced nowadays relate to the story.
- The demon Ravana had 10 arms and 10 heads and was a wicked King. He kidnapped Sita, the wife of Rama.
- Rama killed the demon and rescued his wife and returned to become King. The people lit rows of lamps to guide them home.
- We are now going to watch the story of Rama and Sita

What have you learned?
